

Easy Read – Sending Pictures Online

The internet is a great place to send pictures and videos to people we know.

If you have met someone online and they are asking you to send pictures of your private parts, this can be scary.

If you send photos of your private parts, people can save these photos and post them online for lots of people to see.

If someone says they will share pictures of your private parts with anyone else, this is wrong.

You should tell someone that supports you if someone has said they will share pictures of your private parts or if you find out that they already have.

If this happens, it is not your fault. The person shouldn't have done this to you.